

Megan Dixon (Cal. Bar No. 162895)
HOGAN LOVELLS US LLP
3 Embarcadero Center
Suite 1500
San Francisco, CA 94111
Telephone: (415) 374-2300
Facsimile: (415) 374-2499
E-Mail: megan.dixon@hoganlovells.com

Robert F. Leibenluft (admitted pro hac vice)
William L. Monts III (admitted pro hac vice)
Benjamin F. Holt (admitted pro hac vice)
HOGAN LOVELLS US LLP
555 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20004-1109
Telephone: (202) 637-5600
Facsimile: (202) 637-5910
E-Mail: robert.leibenluft@hoganlovells.com
william.monts@hoganlovells.com
benjamin.holt@hoganlovells.com

Attorneys for Defendants
American Society for Reproductive Medicine and
Society for Assisted Reproductive Technology

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
NORTHERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

LINDSAY KAMAKAHI and JUSTINE
LEVY, individually, and on behalf of themselves and all others similarly situated,

Plaintiffs,

v.

AMERICAN SOCIETY FOR REPRODUCTIVE MEDICINE and SOCIETY FOR ASSISTED REPRODUCTIVE TECHNOLOGY,

Defendants.

Case No. 3:11-CV-1781-JCS

DEFENDANTS' MEMORANDUM OF POINTS AND AUTHORITIES IN OPPOSITION TO PLAINTIFFS'
ADMINISTRATIVE MOTION TO STRIKE
DEFENDANTS' UNTIMELY MOTION TO EXCLUDE THE OPINIONS OF DR. HAL
J. SINGER ON CLASS CERTIFICATION

Defendants American Society for Reproductive Medicine (“ASRM”) and Society for Assisted Reproductive Technology (“SART”) (collectively, “Defendants”) submit this memorandum in opposition to Plaintiffs’ Administrative Motion to Strike Defendants’ Untimely Motion to Exclude the Opinions of Dr. Hal J. Singer on Class Certification (“Pls. Adm. Mot.”).

INTRODUCTION

Plaintiffs’ motion declares that “Deadlines and rules exist for a reason.” Pls. Adm. Mot. at 1. Yet Plaintiffs never identify any applicable deadline, whether in a rule or court scheduling order, rendering untimely Defendants’ motion challenging the admissibility of the opinions of their expert, Dr. Hal J. Singer. Stripped of its rhetoric, their argument rests on Local Rule 7-3(d)(1), which concerns challenges to evidence submitted on a reply brief. But Defendants’ motion to exclude Dr. Singer’s opinions does not contest the merits of Plaintiffs’ class certification motion. It challenges under Rule 702 of the Federal Rules of Evidence the admissibility of any of Dr. Singer’s opinions Plaintiffs have offered in support of that motion. The inquiry on Defendants’ motion to exclude is different, as are the legal standards governing its resolution, from Plaintiffs’ request for class certification. It is a separate motion. Local Rule 7-3(d)(1), therefore, does not apply.

Without any basis for contesting the timeliness of Defendants’ filing, Plaintiffs retreat to two other contentions: (1) the motion is “unfairly prejudicial”; and (2) the motion amounts to additional argument on class certification. On the first, it is impossible to see how the motion is prejudicial at all. Plaintiffs have had more than 15 months to conduct fact discovery in the case and prepare expert reports. See Dkt. #81 (initial scheduling order opening discovery on July 1, 2013 and closing discovery on October 20, 2014); see also Dkt. 113 (amended scheduling order retaining October 20, 2014 fact discovery cutoff). They surely expected to defend their expert’s work. In any event, the Local Rules give Plaintiffs an opportunity to oppose the motion.

The second repeats the untimeliness argument. But Plaintiffs’ conflation of an evidentiary motion with a class certification motion fares no better here. Admissibility is determined by reference to what the evidence is offered to prove. By definition, motions contesting the admissibility of evidence on class certification will reference the elements of Rule 23. That fact

1 does not convert an evidentiary objection into a substantive contention, for then every evidentiary
 2 objection would collapse into a question on the merits. Plaintiffs' motion should be denied.

3 ARGUMENT

4 I. DEFENDANTS' MOTION IS TIMELY

5 Plaintiffs make four points in support of their timeliness argument, but only one is even 6 plausibly relevant to the issue.¹ Plaintiffs' note that Local Rule 7-3(d)(1) requires that objections
 7 to reply evidence "must be filed and served not more than 7 days after the reply was filed." That 8 contention assumes that Defendants' motion to exclude Dr. Singer's opinions is a further 9 response to Plaintiffs' class certification motion because Local Rule 7-3(d)(1) applies only to 10 evidence submitted on a reply brief. That assumption is demonstrably wrong. Defendants' 11 challenge to the admissibility of Dr. Singer's opinions is a separate and distinct motion from 12 Plaintiffs' class certification motion. The legal issues on the two motions are distinct: Plaintiffs'
 13 class certification motion requires that they demonstrate the well-known prongs of Rule 23:
 14 numerosity, commonality, typicality, adequacy, predominance and superiority. Defendants'
 15 motion to exclude Dr. Singer's opinions tests whether his work is based on a reliable 16 methodology and is applied reliably to the facts. Daubert v. Merrill Dow Pharms., Inc., 509 U.S.
 17 579 (1993). No doubt Defendants' motion references what Plaintiffs must prove to obtain class
 18 certification because every evidentiary objection must be analyzed in the context of the factual
 19 question in issue and whether the evidence tends to establish or refute the fact. But if that 20 converted evidentiary objections into arguments about the merits of a legal issue, the Federal 21 Rules of Evidence would be superfluous.

22 The folly of Plaintiffs' reading of Local Rule 7-3(d)(1) is manifest by the absurd result it 23 would have in practice. Were Plaintiffs correct, Defendants would have had a mere seven days to 24 read and digest Dr. Singer's reply class certification report, which spanned 83 pages. They then 25 would have been limited to a five-page challenge to it. Defendants would have also been required

26 ¹ Plaintiffs' first and fourth contentions – that Defendants were required to file a motion for leave 27 and any motion for leave would have been denied, Pls. Adm. Mot. at 2 – assume the motion is 28 untimely. Since the question to be decided here is whether Defendants' motion is, in fact, untimely, those points add nothing to the argument.

1 to file a Daubert motion before the filing of Plaintiffs' reply memorandum – Plaintiffs do not say
 2 when – to challenge Dr. Singer's initial report. In other words, Plaintiffs' approach would force
 3 two Daubert challenges: one upon the submission of the initial report and another when a reply
 4 report is submitted. Local Rule 7-3(d) does not mandate this Rube Goldberg procedure or require 5 parties to inundate the Court with multiple filings on the same issue.

6 Plaintiffs' contention that nothing in the scheduling order authorizes Defendants' motion
 7 is also unavailing. This argument is makeweight; notwithstanding the silence of the scheduling
 8 order, Plaintiffs filed their own Daubert motion to exclude the opinions of Dr. Insoo Hyun, one of 9 Defendants' experts. Dkt. #133. It also misperceives the function of scheduling orders, which 10 establish general deadlines for cases. They do not authorize every particular motion because 11 courts and litigants cannot possibly foresee all issues that may need to be raised by motions at the 12 outset of a case. The Local Rules do not require parties filing motions to have affirmative 13 authorization in a scheduling order. To the contrary, they establish an orderly procedure for 14 motions, requiring that they be filed a minimum of 35 days before hearing. L.R. 7-2(a).
 15 Defendants properly noticed and filed the motion under the Local Rules. The motion to exclude 16 Dr. Singer's opinions is timely.²

17 II. PLAINTIFFS ARE NOT PREJUDICED BY THE FILING

18 Plaintiffs' claim that the motion to exclude Dr. Singer's opinions prejudices them borders 19 on the frivolous. Plaintiffs are entitled to oppose the motion, and Defendants fully expect that 20 they will. But Plaintiffs contend that obligation will somehow impede their preparation for 21 arguments on the class certification motion. Even accepting that dubious assertion, that is not 22 "prejudice" of any sort. The same could be said about discovery motions interrupting deposition 23

24 ² Plaintiffs' complaints about Defendants' refusal to consent to allowing Dr. Singer to file yet
 25 another supplemental report make no sense. Plaintiffs had nearly 15 months to conduct discovery
 26 in this case. Dkt. #81 (opening discovery on July 1, 2013 and closing on October 20, 2014).
 27 They had ample opportunity to seek information from third parties and raise any discovery issues
 28 with the Court. Dr. Singer submitted an original report and a reply totaling 135 pages of opinions and exhibits. At some point, Plaintiffs and their expert must pick a theory and stick with it.
 Apparently, Plaintiffs want Defendants to respond to additional materials from Dr. Singer but claim for themselves an exemption from having to defend the admissibility of his work.

1 preparation or summary judgment motions interfering with trial preparation. Motion practice is a
2 feature of litigation. That a party must respond to a motion does not constitute legal prejudice.

3 Likewise, that Defendants get a reply brief in support of their motion is not prejudice; it is 4 a function of the Local Rules. Plaintiffs claim that the timing of the motion allows Defendants
5 “to file a reply on central issues at play in class certification shortly before the hearing.” Pls.
6 Adm. Mot. at 3. That is true on every motion – the movant gets the last word. In any event, 7 under the Local Rules, Plaintiffs will file their opposition three weeks before the hearing and 8 Defendants their reply two weeks before the hearing. Plaintiffs’ argument boils down to a 9 contention that Defendants get a filing one week later than they do. That is not “prejudice.”

10 III. DEFENDANTS’ MOTION DOES NOT INCLUDE IMPROPER ADDITIONAL 11 ARGUMENT ON CLASS CERTIFICATION

12 Finally, Plaintiffs claim that Defendants’ motion is improper additional argument on the 13 class certification motion. This contention merely repeats Plaintiffs’ timeliness argument and 14 fails for the same reasons. Their remaining points are not relevant to their motion to strike but go 15 the merits of Defendants’ motion to exclude Dr. Singer’s opinions. Nonetheless, two matters 16 deserve mention.

17 First, Plaintiffs’ arguments on the merits belie their claim that they somehow are 18 prejudiced by having to respond to Defendants’ motion to exclude Dr. Singer’s opinions.

19 Second, Plaintiffs contend that Defendants “make a number of false and misleading 20 arguments in their Motion, which they would presumably expand upon in their reply.” Pls. Adm.
21 Mot. at 4. But the only example they cite is Defendants’ supposed assertion that Dr. Singer’s 22 “opinions are the only evidence supporting Plaintiffs’ certification motion.” Id. Defendants 23 never made any such argument. Plaintiffs’ claim otherwise is selective quotation at its worst.
24 Defendants’ motion reads in pertinent part:

25 Plaintiffs must develop a methodology that, with evidence common to the class as 26 a whole, can establish “in one stroke[]” whether absent class members have 27 suffered or will likely suffer antitrust injury. On that essential issue, Dr. Singer’s 28 opinions are the only evidence supporting Plaintiffs’ certification motion.

1 Defs. Mot. (Dkt. #150-4) at 5 (emphasis added) (internal citations omitted). Defendants expressly
 2 limited their argument to evidence relating to a methodology to establish classwide antitrust
 3 injury. Plaintiffs' documentary evidence does not address that issue; Dr. Singer's opinions are 4 the crucial evidence. Defendants' point was direct and accurate when made and remains so.
 5 Plaintiffs' liberties with Defendants' words match those they take with the content of the Local 6 Rule 7-3(d)(1). Their motion should be denied.

7 CONCLUSION

8 For the foregoing reasons, Defendants respectfully request that the Court deny Plaintiffs'
 9 administrative motion to strike defendants' motion to exclude the opinions of Dr. Hal J. Singer
 10 offered on Plaintiffs' class certification motion.

11 Respectfully submitted,

12
 13 November 7, 2014

/s/ William L. Monts III

14 Megan Dixon (Cal. Bar No. 162895)
 15 HOGAN LOVELLS US LLP
 16 3 Embarcadero Center
 17 Suite 1500
 18 San Francisco, CA 94111
 19 Telephone: (415) 374-2300
 20 Facsimile: (415) 374-2499
 21 E-Mail: megan.dixon@hoganlovells.com

22 Robert F. Leibenluft (admitted pro hac vice)
 23 William L. Monts III (admitted pro hac vice)
 24 Benjamin F. Holt (admitted pro hac vice)
 25 HOGAN LOVELLS US LLP
 26 555 Thirteenth Street, N.W.
 27 Washington, D.C. 20004-1109
 28 Telephone: (202) 637-5600
 Facsimile: (202) 637-5910
 E-Mail: robert.leibenluft@hoganlovells.com
 william.monts@hoganlovells.com
 benjamin.holt@hoganlovells.com

Attorneys for Defendants
American Society for Reproductive Medicine and Society for Assisted Reproductive Technology